National Australia Bank announces agreement with The Bank of New York for UK trustee, custody and related services

National Australia Bank today announced it plans to close its National Custodian Services UK operations and has reached an agreement to transfer its clients to The Bank of New York, subject to the approval of clients. The agreement does not involve a transfer of business infrastructure or a legal entity.

National Custodian Services (NCS) UK provides custody, trustee & depository and fund administration for institutional clients from its base in Glasgow.

This agreement represents an enhancement of a strong relationship with The Bank of New York, which is the National's global custodian for offshore assets.

Mr Tony O'Grady, General Manager, NCS, said: "The National is a market leader for custody and investment administration services in Australia and New Zealand, and will continue to offer a full range of securities services in those markets. However within the UK, ongoing market consolidation and increased price competition mean that we would be unable to remain profitable in this business in the UK in the long term.

We are contacting our UK clients today to inform them of this decision and to organise meetings to introduce them to The Bank of New York and to outline the proposed process. Assuming client agreement, the transfer to The Bank of New York is expected to be achieved over a period of six months. Clients will continue to receive services from the National until their transfers are complete.

Mr O'Grady said the decision would impact approximately 140 roles in NCS UK. Employees are being informed of the decision and meetings will be held with all staff and the union (UNIFI) to discuss options available to them.

The agreement with The Bank of New York does not affect the National's other European operations.

Tim Keaney, Executive Vice President and Head of Europe for The Bank of New York said: "This agreement further strengthens our relationship with the National, and demonstrates our leadership position in the field of UK custody, trustee & depository and fund administration. We are looking forward to working with our new clients and are confident of providing a seamless transition and a high quality service.

The terms of the agreement will not be disclosed.
