To our valued customers:

As you are probably aware, on Jan. 31, 2005, SBC Communications Inc. announced plans to acquire AT&T. As this process unfolds, SBC companies remain absolutely committed to delivering the latest technologies along with best-in-class service, reliability, and support.

SBC companies today are well-positioned to meet a variety of communications needs, providing a broad range of voice, data, networking, e-business, directory publishing, and advertising and related services to businesses, consumers, and other telecommunications providers today. We also hold a 60 percent ownership interest in the largest U.S. wireless company, Cingular Wireless, with more than 50 million customers. Our top focus is continuing to provide you with the best service and capabilities possible until the merger closes.

We anticipate that the proposed acquisition will be finalized in late 2005 or early 2006. As the process continues, we want you to know what this proposed acquisition will mean for you. As one of our most valued customers, your business and personal satisfaction are important to us.

Our motivation in seeking to combine SBC and AT&T is driven by customer demand, most specifically by the rapidly evolving and expanding needs of our largest business and government customers. We understand that your communications services are mission-critical and that advanced technology and consistent, quality service are essential on a nationwide and global scale.

SBC companies are committed to leading the telecommunications industry's evolution to address these needs. The proposed acquisition, once closed, will combine the highly complementary strengths of SBC and AT&T, enhancing our ability to innovate, invest, and deliver industry-leading networking and communications services. On Day One, the new company will have:

Robust, high-quality network assets both in the United States and around the globe, and complementary expertise and capabilities.

Resources and skill sets to innovate and more quickly deliver to customers the next generation of advanced, integrated IP-based communications services.

Capacity to provide services with the high levels of reliability and customer service that have long been the hallmark of both companies.

Together, SBC and AT&T will be better-positioned for success and leadership within a rapidly changing telecommunications marketplace, setting the standard for transition from legacy technologies to advanced, next-generation IP networks and services.

Bottom line: while SBC companies are well-suited to meet your communications needs today, once approved and closed, the proposed SBC/AT&T merger will enable us to provide you an even wider array of ongoing services and solutions that will meet your ever-more sophisticated requirements tomorrow.

The SBC family of companies greatly appreciates your business. Please contact us if you have any questions or suggestions on how we can serve you better.

Sincerely,
