Item 7.01

Regulation FD Disclosure

In response to inquiries concerning the relabeling of certain engineered hardwood flooring products, the Registrant is providing the following statement:

“Lumber Liquidators discovered in an internal review that a supplier had included an inapplicable CARB certificate number on the label for a limited number of engineered hardwood flooring products. This labeling issue does not impact the CARB Phase II emissions compliance for these products. After consultation with our advisors and out of an abundance of caution, we held the products until the labeling could be revised. The revised labels remove the inapplicable certificate number, but retain the supplier's statement that the product is CARB Phase II compliant. We have advised the California regulators that we relabeled the products to address this matter.”
