E.ON fully divests stake in Bouygues Télécom

Consolidated Book Gain of a good 500 Million

The Bouygues Group exercises a call option agreed with E.ON in January of 2003 to acquire the remaining 10.1 percent in Bouygues Télécom held by E.ON effective end of 2003. The exercise price amounts to about 700 million, including accrued interest and shareholder loans.

The companies had agreed on the divestment of the stake in Bouygues Telecom of just under 16 percent in two tranches for a total of about 1.1 billion at the beginning of the year. In January, E.ON had already sold a 5.8 percent shareholding in France's third-largest wireless company to Bouygues for roughly 400 million. For the second tranche, E.ON and Bouygues had agreed on a call option exercisable from April 2003 through October 2005.

By fully divesting its stake in Bouygues Telecom, E.ON will achieve a consolidated book gain of approximately 800 million in total, a good 500 million of which will come from the second tranche.
