On 15 July 2005, Prudential plc issued US$300 million perpetual subordinated securities exchangeable into preference shares. They bear interest at 6.5% p.a., payable quarterly in arrears, and rank equal to preference shares.

The securities can be redeemed at Prudential plc's option on any interest the securities.

Interest may be paid through an alternative coupon settlement mechanism at any time. Deferred interest is only payable at redemption or exchange, through an alternative coupon settlement mechanism, or upon a winding-up. Prudential plc has the option to exchange the securities into fixed-rate 6.5% preference shares on any interest payment date from 23 March 2011. Dividend payments on the preference shares are fully discretionary.

The securities were sold in the US market and application to list them on the New York Stock Exchange has been made. They are rated A by Standard & Poor's, Baa1 by Moody's and A + by Fitch. The proceeds will be used to refinance existing debt, while also counting towards Prudential plc's regulatory capital requirements.

Any public offering of the securities in the United States will be made by means of a prospectus containing detailed information regarding Prudential plc (the "Company") and the Company's management, including financial statements. "seeks" and "anticipates", and words of similar meaning, are forward-looking. By their nature, all forward-looking statements involve risk and uncertainty because they relate to future events and circumstances which are beyond Prudential's control including among other things, UK domestic and global economic and business conditions, market related risks such as fluctuations in interest rates and exchange rates, and the performance of financial markets generally; the policies and actions of regulatory authorities, the impact of competition, inflation, and deflation; experience in particular with regard to mortality and morbidity trends, lapse rates and policy renewal rates; the timing, impact and other uncertainties of future acquisitions or combinations within relevant industries; and the impact of changes in capital, solvency or accounting standards, and tax and other legislation and regulations in the jurisdictions in which Prudential and its affiliates operate. This may for example result in changes to assumptions used for determining results of operations or re-estimations of reserves for future policy benefits. As a result, Prudential's actual future financial condition, performance and results may differ materially from the plans, goals, and expectations set forth in Prudential's forward-looking statements. Prudential undertakes no obligation to update the forward-looking statements contained in this statement or any other forward-looking statements it may make.
