Recent Developments

Amended and Restated Convertible Subordinated Notes

In the third quarter of 2006, Noble voluntarily redeemed $7.5 million in principal amount of its $40.0 million 4% convertible subordinated notes (the 4% notes). The 4% notes were originally issued pursuant to a Securities Purchase Agreement dated as of March 25, 2004 by and among Noble and the buyers party thereto in transactions exempt from the registration requirements of the federal securities laws. Following an advance of $7.5 million to Noble from the holders identified in the section of this prospectus entitled, Selling Security Holders, the 4% notes were amended and restated pursuant to the terms of the Amended and Restated Convertible Subordinated Notes dated as of October 11, 2006 (the 6% notes). As consideration for the advance, each of the holders received a pro rata share of the 6% notes in addition to the amount held by such holders prior to the advance and subsequent amendment. On January 10, 2007, certain terms of the 6% notes were amended pursuant to the First Amendment to Amended and Restated Convertible Notes executed between Noble and the holders of the 6% notes (as amended, the notes). In connection with the issuance of the notes, we entered into a Registration Rights Agreement dated October 11, 2006 (the Registration Rights Agreement) with the holders of the notes. The notes have a five-year maturity and pay simple interest at an annual rate of 8%. Accrued interest is paid semi-annually on the first day of March and September beginning March 1, 2007. In the event that the notes are not re-issued in book entry form by January 30, 2007, the annual interest rate will set to 7%.

The notes are convertible by the selling security holders into shares of common stock at a conversion price equal to $19.50 in principal amount of the notes per share, subject to customary adjustments for stock dividends, stock splits, stock combinations, reclassifications and similar transactions.

On or after the third anniversary date of issuance, Noble may redeem some or all of the notes if the common stock price exceeds 120% of the adjusted conversion price for at least 20 of the 30 consecutive trading days prior to the notice of redemption. In the event of a change of control, each selling security holder will have the right to require Noble to repurchase the notes at a price equal to the greater of (i) the product of the (x) amounts being redeemed and (y) the quotient determined by dividing (A) the closing price of common stock immediately following the public announcement of the proposed change in control by (B) the conversion price and (ii) 110% of the amount being redeemed. Any amounts payable in excess of the amounts being redeemed are payable in cash or common stock, at Noble's option. In addition, in the event of a change in control, each selling security holder is entitled to receive from Noble, upon conversion of its note, a Make-whole Premium in cash or common stock equal in value to an amount between $60 and $180 for each $1000 in principal amount of the notes converted (the precise amount depending on the date of conversion). In the event of a default under the notes, each selling security holder may require Noble to redeem all or any portion of its note at a price equal to the greater of (i) the product of (A) the principal amount of the notes, plus accrued by unpaid interest, being redeemed and (B) a Redemption Premium of 120% upon certain events of default and 100% upon others, or (ii) the product of (A) the principal amount of the notes, plus accrued by unpaid interest, being redeemed divided by the conversion price then in effect and (B) the closing sales price of Noble's common stock on the date immediately preceding the event of default.

This description of the notes does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the form of notes set forth as Exhibit 4.1 to this Registration Statement and incorporated herein by reference. Terms not defined herein shall, in each case, have the meaning ascribed thereto in the notes.

Words such as expect , anticipate , intend , plan , believe , estimate and variations of such words and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements. We undertake no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise. RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider the following factors and other information included or incorporated by reference in this prospectus before deciding to purchase the notes or common stock. Any of these risks could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects, which could in turn have a material adverse effect on the price of common stock or the value of the notes. In this case, you may lose all or part of your investment.

Outstanding Indebtedness. In order to finance its operations, including costs related to the consummation of various acquisitions, Noble has incurred indebtedness. Noble maintains a $110.0 million secured credit facility with a syndication of commercial banks with a maturity date of October 2011. As of December 8, 2006, Noble has borrowed $73,659,143 under the credit facility. Noble's credit facilities are secured by substantially all of its assets as well as the assets of its subsidiaries. In addition to certain financial covenants, Noble's credit facilities restrict its ability to incur additional indebtedness or pledge assets. As of December 8, 2006, Noble is in compliance with all of the terms of its credit facilities. Noble may not be able to comply with the terms of its credit facilities in the future. All of Noble's $32.5 million outstanding 4% Convertible Subordinated Notes that were set to mature March 31, 2007 have been amended and restated pursuant to certain Amended and Restated Convertible Subordinated Notes dated as of October 11, 2006, as amended (the notes). The notes have a maturity date of October 11, 2011, and are subordinated to all senior indebtedness of Noble. The interest rate on the notes is 8% and is fixed for the entire term.

Debt Service Obligations. Noble's business is subject to all of the risks associated with substantial leverage, including the risk that available cash may not be adequate to make required payments. Noble's ability to satisfy outstanding debt obligations from cash flow is dependent upon its future performance and is subject to financial, business and other factors, many of which may be beyond its control. In the event that Noble does not have sufficient cash resources to satisfy its repayment obligations, it would be in default under the agreements pursuant to which such obligations were incurred, which would have a material adverse effect on its business. To the extent that Noble is required to use cash resources to satisfy interest payments to the holders of outstanding debt obligations, it will have fewer resources available for other purposes. While Noble has reduced its leverage and improved its liquidity over the past several years, Noble may increase its leverage in the future, whether as a result of operational or financial performance, acquisition or otherwise.

Reliance on Major Customers. Sales to the automotive industry accounted for substantially all of Noble's sales from continuing operations as of December 8, 2006. In addition, Noble's automotive sales are highly concentrated among a few major original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) and Tier I suppliers. Thus, the loss of any significant customer or the failure of any significant customer to pay amounts due to Noble could have a material adverse effect on Noble's business. As is typical in the automotive supply industry, Noble has no long-term contracts with any of its customers. Noble's customers provide annual estimates of their requirements; however, sales are made on a short-term purchase order basis. There is substantial and continuing pressure from the major OEMs and Tier I suppliers to reduce costs, including the cost of products purchased from outside suppliers. If in the future Noble is unable to generate sufficient production cost savings to offset price reductions, its gross margins could be adversely affected.

Risks Relating to Acquisitions, Including Recent Acquisitions. The automotive component supply industry is undergoing consolidation as OEMs seek to reduce both their costs and their supplier base. Future acquisitions may be made in order to enable Noble to expand into new geographic markets, add new customers, provide new products, expand manufacturing and service capabilities and increase automotive model penetration with existing customers. Noble may not be successful in identifying appropriate acquisition candidates or in successfully combining operations with such candidates if they are identified. It should be noted that any acquisitions could involve the dilutive issuance of equity securities or the incurrence of debt. In addition, acquisitions involve numerous other risks, including difficulties in assimilation of the acquired company's operations following consummation of the acquisition, the diversion of management's attention from other business concerns, risks of producing products we have limited experience with, the potential loss of key customers of the acquired company, and the ability of pre-acquisition due diligence to identify all possible issues that may arise with respect to products of the acquired company. All these acquisition risks could materially and adversely affect the financial performance of Noble.

In October 2006 Noble acquired Pullman Industries, Inc. (Pullman), as reported on Noble's Current Report on Form 8-K filed with the SEC on October 17, 2006. Pullman is engaged in the business of rollforming of metal products, a new product line for Noble. While Noble performed a due diligence investigation on Pullman and retained most of Pullman's management, there can be no guaranty that Noble identified and addressed all risks related to the ownership or operation of Pullman.

In October 2006 Noble also announced the signing of a binding letter of intent to acquire the European laser welded blanking business of Arcelor, S.A. (the Arcelor LWB Business) as reported on Noble's Current Report on Form 8-K filed with the SEC on October 27, 2006. The binding letter of intent is subject to several contingencies that may give either party the right to walk away from the transaction before it closes. Such contingencies include mutual due diligence investigations, financing and regulatory approvals. If the transaction proceeds, Noble will incur additional debt to finance the acquisition and issue a significant amount of its equity securities that would result in significant dilution of existing shareholders. In addition, Noble will face risks relating to the ownership, operation or integration of the Arcelor LWB Business that could materially and adversely affect the financial performance of Noble. Issues that arise relating to the ownership, operation or integration of Pullman or the Arcelor LWB Business could materially and adversely affect the financial performance of Noble.

Failure to Obtain Business on New and Redesigned Model Introductions. Noble's automotive product lines are subject to change as its customers, including both OEMs and Tier I suppliers, introduce new or redesigned products. Noble competes for new business both at the beginning of the development phase of new vehicle models, which generally begins two to five years prior to the marketing of such models to the public, and upon the redesign of existing models. Noble's sales would be adversely affected if Noble fails to obtain business on new models, fails to retain or increase business on redesigned existing models, if Noble's customers do not successfully introduce new products incorporating Noble's products, or if market demand for these new products does not develop as anticipated.

Competition. Markets for all of Noble's products are extremely competitive. Noble competes based upon a variety of factors, including engineering, product design, process capability, quality, cost, delivery and responsiveness. In addition, with respect to certain of Noble's products, Noble faces competition from divisions of its OEM customers. Noble's business may be adversely affected by competition, and Noble may not be able to maintain its profitability if the competitive environment changes.

Dependence on Continuous Improvement of Production Technologies. Noble's ability to continue to meet customer demands within its automotive operations with respect to performance, cost, quality and service will depend, in part, upon its ability to remain technologically competitive with its production processes. New automotive products are increasingly complex, require increased welding precision, use of various materials and have to be run at higher production speeds and with lower scrap ratios in order to reduce costs. The investment of significant additional capital or other resources may be required to meet this continuing challenge. If Noble is unable to improve its production technologies, it may lose business and possibly be forced to exit from the particular market.

Design and Engineering Resources. Within the automotive industry, OEMs and Tier I suppliers require their suppliers to provide design and engineering input during the product development process. The direct costs of design and engineering are generally borne by Noble's customers. However, Noble bears the indirect cost associated with the allocation of limited design and engineering resources to such product development projects. Despite Noble's up-front dedication of design and engineering resources, its customers are under no obligation to order the subject components or systems from Noble following their development. In addition, when Noble deems it strategically advisable, it may also bear the direct up-front design and engineering costs as well. Noble's dedication of design and engineering resources, or up-front design and engineering expenditures, may have a material adverse effect on Noble's financial condition, cash flow or results of operations.

Industry Cyclical and Seasonality. The automotive industry is highly cyclical and dependent on consumer spending. Economic factors adversely affecting automotive production and consumer spending could adversely impact Noble's business. In addition, the automotive component supply industry is somewhat seasonal. Noble's need for continued significant expenditures for capital equipment purchases, equipment development and ongoing manufacturing improvement and support, among other factors, make it difficult for us to reduce operating expenses in a particular period if our net sales forecasts for such period are not met, because a substantial component of our operating expenses are fixed costs. Generally, revenue and operating income increase during the second calendar quarter of each year as a result of the automotive industry's spring selling season, which is the peak sales and production period of the year. Revenue and operating income generally decrease during July and December of each year as a result of changeovers in production lines for new model years as well as scheduled OEM plant shutdowns for vacations and holidays.

Noble's historical results of operations have generally not reflected typical cyclical or seasonal fluctuations in revenues and operating income. The acquisitions and divestitures completed by Noble have resulted in a growth trend through successive periods which has masked the effect of typical seasonal fluctuations. Noble's business may not continue its historical growth trend, continue to be profitable, or conform to industry norms for seasonality in future periods.

U.S. and Global Economic Conditions. Demand in the automotive industry is significantly dependent on the U.S. and the global economies, and Noble's business and profitability are exposed to current and future uncertainties. Demand in the automotive industry fluctuates in response to overall economic conditions and is particularly sensitive to changes in interest rate levels, consumer confidence and fuel costs. The threat or act of terrorism and war, the recession, higher energy costs and other recent developments have adversely affected consumer confidence throughout the U.S. and much of the world, and exacerbated the uncertainty in Noble's markets. The future impact resulting from changes in economic conditions is difficult to predict. Our results of operations would be harmed by any sustained weakness in demand or continued downturn in the economy.

Noble's sales are impacted by automotive retail inventory levels and production schedules. In recent years, OEM customers have significantly reduced their production and inventory levels due to the uncertain economic environment. It is extremely difficult to predict future production rates and inventory levels for such OEM customers. Any additional decline in production rates and/or inventory levels would adversely affect our operating results.

Price Reduction Pressures From Customers. Noble and other suppliers to the automotive markets face continued price reduction pressure from our customers. The U.S.-based OEMs, in particular, have experienced significant market share erosion to non-U.S.-based OEMs over the past few years, thereby putting pressure on their profitability. These OEMs respond by pressuring their suppliers, including Noble, to reduce the prices of products sold to such OEMs. To the extent this trend continues, the price reduction pressures experienced by Noble will be ongoing. While Noble constantly strives to sustain and improve its margins through a variety of efforts, Noble may not be able to maintain or improve its operating results in the face of such price reduction pressures.

Risk of Labor Interruptions. Within the automotive supply industry substantially all of the hourly employees of the OEMs and many Tier I suppliers are represented by labor unions, and work pursuant to collective bargaining agreements. The failure of any of Noble's significant customers to reach agreement with a labor union on a timely basis, resulting in either a work stoppage or strike, could have a material adverse effect on Noble's business. During 1999, production workers at Noble's facility in Michigan elected to be represented by the UAW. A three-year collective bargaining agreement was entered into in September 2000 and expired in December 2003. In January 2004, Noble entered into a new five-year collective bargaining agreement, which expires in December 2008, with the UAW at its facility in Michigan. Noble's Silao, Mexico facility is represented by the National Union of Employees for the Industry of Manufacturing, Repair and Operation of Heavy Machinery, Equipment, Parts and Components, Similar and Related of the Mexican Republic. The union contract in Mexico is negotiated and renewed on an annual basis. Pullman Industries, Inc., acquired by Noble on October 12, 2006, is party to a collective bargaining agreement with the UAW at its South Haven, Michigan manufacturing facility and with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters at its Pullman Manufacturing Division facility. Pullman's Mexican Subsidiaries, Pullman de Queretaro and Pullman de Puebla, are each party to a collective bargaining agreement with the Confederation of Workers and Farm Laborers. Although no facility has been subject to a strike, lockout or other major work stoppage, any such incident would have a material adverse effect on Noble's operating income.

Product Liability Exposure. Within the automotive operations, Noble faces an inherent business risk of exposure to product liability claims if the failure of one of its products results in personal injury or death. Material product liability losses may occur in the future. In addition, if any of Noble's products prove to be defective, Noble may be required to participate in a recall involving such products. Noble maintains insurance against product liability claims, but there can be no assurance that such coverage may be adequate or may continue to be available to Noble on acceptable terms or at all. A successful claim brought against Noble in excess of available insurance coverage or a requirement to participate in any product recall could have a material adverse effect on its business.

Impact of Environmental Regulation. Noble is subject to the requirements of federal, state and local environmental and occupational health and safety laws and regulations. Although Noble has made and will continue to make expenditures to comply with environmental requirements, these requirements are constantly evolving, and it is impossible to predict whether compliance with these laws and regulations may have a material adverse effect on Noble in the future. If a release of hazardous substances occurs on or from Noble's properties or from any of its disposals at offsite disposal locations, or if contamination is discovered at any of Noble's current or former properties, it may be held liable, and the amount of such liability could be material.

Dependence on Key Personnel. Noble's operations are dependent upon its ability to attract and retain qualified employees in the areas of engineering, operations and management, and are greatly influenced by the efforts and abilities of its Chairman and executive officers. Noble has employment agreements with its Chairman and several executive officers. Noble does not maintain key-person life insurance on its executives. In February 2006, Christopher L. Morin resigned as Noble's Chief Executive Officer and as a member of the Board of Directors. In March 2006, Thomas L. Saeli was appointed Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Saeli has served on Noble's Board of Directors since 2002 and will remain a member of the Board of Directors. Mr. Saeli entered into an employment agreement with Noble in May 2006.

Control by Existing Stockholders. Robert J. Skandalaris owns and/or controls approximately 15% of the outstanding common stock. As a result, Mr. Skandalaris is able to exert significant influence over the outcome of all matters submitted to a vote of Noble's stockholders, including the election of directors, amendments to Noble's Certificate of Incorporation and approval of significant corporate transactions. Such consolidation of voting power could also have the effect of delaying, deterring or preventing a change in control that might be beneficial to other stockholders.

Anti-Takeover Provisions. Certain provisions of Noble's Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws may inhibit changes in control of Noble not approved by the Board of Directors. These provisions include: (i) a prohibition on stockholder action through written consents; (ii) a requirement that special meetings of stockholders be called only by the Board of Directors; (iii) advance notice requirements for stockholder proposals and nominations; (iv) limitations on the ability of stockholders to amend, alter or repeal the Bylaws; and (v) the authority of the Board of Directors to issue, without stockholder approval, preferred stock with such terms as the Board of Directors may determine. Noble will also be afforded the protections of Section 203 of the Delaware General Corporation Law, which could have similar effects.

Risks Associated With International Operations. Noble operates international production facilities in Canada, Australia and Mexico. On November 30, 2006, Noble, through its subsidiary Noble Metal Processing Asia Limited, entered into an Equity Joint Venture Contract with WISCO Jiangbei Steel Processing and Logistics Co., Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of Wuhan Iron and Steel Group Company, for the establishment of a Chinese joint venture company to manufacture and sell laser welded blank products within the People's Republic of China. Noble's business strategy may include the continued expansion of international operations. As Noble expands its international operations, it will increasingly be subject to the risks associated with such operations, including: (i) fluctuations in currency exchange rates; (ii) compliance with local laws and other regulatory requirements; (iii) restrictions on the repatriation of funds; (iv) inflationary conditions; (v) political and economic instability; (vi) war or other hostilities; (vii) overlap of tax structures; and (viii) expropriation or nationalization of assets. The inability to effectively manage these and other risks could adversely affect Noble's business.

Shares Eligible for Future Sale. Noble cannot predict the effect that future sales of its common stock will have on the market price of common stock. Sales of substantial amounts of common stock, or the perception that such sales could occur, could adversely affect the market price of the common stock. On January 10, 2006, Noble's Board of Directors authorized and declared a three-for-two stock split of common stock to shareholders of record on January 27, 2006, effected on February 3, 2006 (the "Stock Split"). As a result of the Stock Split, the total float of Noble's shares of common stock increased proportionately, thereby increasing the potential future sales of common stock.

Possible Volatility of Trading Price. The trading price of common stock could be subject to significant fluctuations in response to, among other factors, variations in operating results, developments in the automotive industry, general economic conditions, fluctuations in interest rates and changes in securities analysts' recommendations regarding Noble's securities. Such volatility may adversely affect the market price of the common stock.

Possible Failure of SET Enterprises, Inc. ("SET"). In February 2001, Noble sold two of its non-core subsidiaries to SET, a qualified minority business enterprise providing metal processing services to the automotive OEMs. As a result of additional investments made in October 2006, Noble currently holds approximately $10.0 million in face value of 8% Series A and Series B non-convertible, non-voting SET preferred stock and 4% of the issued and outstanding shares of SET common stock. During the fourth quarter of 2005, Noble recognized a $7.9 million impairment charge related to the SET investments based upon management's estimate of fair value of these investments using a discounted cash flow model and other fair value tools in conjunction with SET's current and projected financial performance. In addition, Noble provides a $3.0 million guarantee of SET's senior debt. The failure of SET's business could materially adversely affect Noble's financial condition if it resulted in SET's inability to pay dividends or its senior debt resulting in Noble's requirement to perform under the guarantee. In addition, Noble's relationship with SET provides minority content in product sold to certain OEMs. These OEMs use a supplier's percentage of minority content as a consideration when awarding new business. To the extent that Noble could not replace minority content provided by SET with content from another minority business enterprise, the failure of SET could affect the future award of new business to Noble.

Impact of Future Sales of Common Stock. We may, in the future, sell additional shares of common stock to raise capital. We may also issue additional shares of common stock to finance future acquisitions. Further, a substantial number of shares of common stock are reserved for issuance pursuant to stock options and upon conversion of the notes and our outstanding convertible notes. We cannot predict the size of future issuances or the effect, if any, that they may have on the market price for common stock. The issuance of substantial amounts of common stock, or the perception that such sales may occur, could adversely affect the market price for common stock and/or the trading price for the notes.

Risks Associated with Redemption of Notes. The redemption of some or all of the notes into or with common stock will dilute the ownership interests of existing stockholders. Any sales in the public market of the common stock issuable upon such conversion could adversely affect prevailing market prices of common stock. In addition, the existence of the notes may encourage short selling by market participants because the conversion of the notes could depress the price of common stock.

Table of ContentsUSE OF PROCEEDS

The selling stockholders will receive all of the proceeds from the sale of the common stock issuable upon conversion of the notes after payment of all discounts, commissions and other sales charges. We will not receive any of the proceeds from the sale of the common stock issuable upon conversion of the notes offered by the selling stockholders under this prospectus, but we have agreed to pay the expenses of preparing this prospectus and the related registration statement.

SELLING SECURITY HOLDERS

Up to 2,083,334 shares of common stock are being offered by this prospectus, all of which are being registered for sale for the accounts of the selling security holders and include 125% of the 1,666,667 shares issuable to the selling security holders listed herein upon conversion of the notes as of the trading day immediately preceding the date the registration statement is initially filed with the SEC.

For additional information regarding the issuance of the notes, see Recent Developments above. We are registering the shares of common stock in order to permit the selling security holders to offer the shares for resale from time to time. Except for the ownership of the notes and the prior ownership of the 4% notes, the selling security holders have not had any material relationship with us within the past three years.

The table below lists the selling security holders and other information regarding the beneficial ownership of the shares of common stock by each of the selling security holders. The second column lists the number of shares of common stock beneficially owned by each selling security holder, based on its ownership of the notes, as of December 1, 2006.

The third column lists the shares of common stock which may be offered by this prospectus by the selling security holders. The fourth column in the table below assumes the sale of all of the shares offered by the selling security holders pursuant to this prospectus. The selling security holders may sell all, some or none of their shares in this offering. See Plan of Distribution.

Under the terms of the notes, a selling security holder may not convert the notes to the extent such conversion or exercise would cause such selling security holder, together with its affiliates, to beneficially own a number of shares of common stock which would exceed 4.99% or 9.99% of our then-outstanding shares of common stock following such conversion, excluding for purposes of such calculation shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the notes which have not been converted. By written notice to Noble, a selling security holder may waive either limitation requirement, provided that any such waiver will not be effective until the sixty-first day after such notice is delivered to Noble.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

The selling security holders may, from time to time, sell any or all of the securities offered by this prospectus on any stock exchange, market or trading facility on which the securities are traded or in private transactions. These sales may be at fixed or negotiated prices. The selling security holders may use any one or more of the following methods when selling the shares of common stock:

ordinary brokerage transactions and transactions in which the broker-dealer solicits purchasers;

block trades in which the broker-dealer will attempt to sell the securities as agent but may position and resell a portion of the block as principal to facilitate the transaction;

purchases by a broker-dealer as principal and resale by the broker-dealer for its account;

an exchange distribution in accordance with the rules of the applicable exchange;

privately negotiated transactions;

short sales;

broker-dealers may agree with the selling security holders to sell a specified number of such securities at a stipulated price;

a combination of any such methods of sale; and any other method permitted pursuant to applicable law.

The selling security holders may also sell the securities under Rule 144 or Rule 144A under the Securities Act, if available, rather than under this prospectus.

The selling security holders may also engage in short sales against the box, puts and calls and other transactions in our securities or derivatives of our securities and may sell or deliver shares in connection with these trades.

Broker-dealers engaged by the selling security holders may arrange for other brokers-dealers to participate in sales. Broker-dealers may receive commissions or discounts from the selling security holders (or, if any broker-dealer acts as agent for the purchaser of securities, from the purchaser) in amounts to be negotiated. The selling security holders do not expect these commissions and discounts to exceed what is customary in the types of transactions involved. Any profits on the resale of shares of common stock by a broker-dealer acting as principal might be deemed to be underwriting discounts or commissions under the Securities Act. Discounts, concessions, commissions and similar selling expenses, if any, attributable to the sale of shares of common stock will be borne by a selling security holder. The selling security holders may agree to indemnify any agent, dealer or broker-dealer that participates in transactions involving sales of the shares of common stock if liabilities are imposed on that person under the Securities Act.

The selling security holders may from time to time pledge or grant a security interest in some or all of the shares of common stock owned by them and, if they default in the performance of their secured obligations, the pledgees or secured parties may offer and sell the shares of common stock from time to time under this prospectus after we have filed an amendment to this prospectus under Rule 424(b)(3) or other applicable provision of the Securities Act amending the list of selling security holders to include the pledgee, transferee or other successors in interest as selling security holders under this prospectus.

The selling security holders also may transfer the shares of common stock in other circumstances, in which case the transferees, pledgees or other successors in interest will be the selling beneficial owners for purposes of this prospectus and may sell the shares of common stock from time to time under this prospectus after we have filed an amendment to this prospectus under Rule 424(b)(3) or other applicable provision of the Securities Act amending the list of selling security holders to include the pledgee, transferee or other successors in interest as selling security holders under this prospectus.

The selling security holders and any broker-dealers or agents that are involved in selling the shares of common stock may be deemed to be underwriters within the meaning of the Securities Act in connection with such sales. In such event, any commissions received by such broker-dealers or agents and any profit on the resale of the shares of common stock purchased by them may be deemed to be underwriting commissions or discounts under the Securities Act. The selling security holders have advised us that they have acquired their securities in the ordinary course of business and they have not entered into any agreements, understandings or arrangements with any underwriters or broker-dealers regarding the sale of their shares of common stock, nor is there an underwriter or coordinating broker acting in connection with a proposed sale of shares of common stock by any selling security holder. If we are notified by any selling security holder that any material arrangement has been entered into with a broker-dealer for the sale of shares of common stock, if required, we will file a supplement to this prospectus.

We are required to pay all fees and expenses incident to the registration of the shares of common stock. We have agreed to indemnify the selling security holders against certain losses, claims, damages and liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act.

Item 15. Indemnification of Directors and Officers.

Section 102 of the Delaware General Corporation Law (DGCL), as amended, allows a corporation to eliminate the personal liability of directors of a corporation to the corporation or its stockholders for monetary damages for a breach of fiduciary duty as a director, except where the director breached his duty of loyalty, failed to act in good faith, engaged in intentional misconduct or knowingly violated a law, authorized the payment of a dividend or approved a stock repurchase in violation of Delaware law or obtained an improper personal benefit.

Section 145 of the DGCL provides, among other things, that a corporation may indemnify any person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to any threatened, pending or completed action, suit or proceeding (other than an action by or in the right of the corporation) by reason of the fact that the person is or was a director, officer, agent or employee of the corporation or is or was serving at the corporation's request as a director, officer, agent, or employee of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, against expenses, including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines and amounts paid in settlement actually and reasonably incurred by the person in connection with such action, suit or proceeding. The power to indemnify applies (a) if such person is successful on the merits or otherwise in defense of any action, suit or proceeding or (b) if such person acted in good faith and in a manner he reasonably believed to be in the best interest, or not opposed to the best interest, of the corporation, and with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, had no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful. The power to indemnify applies to actions brought by or in the right of the corporation as well, with the further limitation that in such actions no indemnification shall be made in the event of any adjudication of liability on the part of the party seeking indemnification, unless the court believes that in light of all the circumstances indemnification should apply.

Section 174 of the DGCL provides, among other things, that a director who willfully or negligently approves of an unlawful payment of dividends or an unlawful stock purchase or redemption may be held liable for such actions. A director who was either absent when the unlawful actions were approved or dissented at the time may avoid liability by causing his or her dissent to such actions to be entered in the books containing the minutes of the meetings of the board of directors at the time such action occurred or immediately after such absent director receives notice of the unlawful acts.

Our certificate of incorporation provides that, pursuant to Delaware law, our directors shall not be liable for monetary damages for breach of the directors' fiduciary duty as director. This provision in the certificate of incorporation does not eliminate the duty of care, and in appropriate circumstances equitable remedies such as injunctive or other forms of non-monetary relief will remain available under Delaware law. In addition, each director will continue to be subject to liability for breach of the director's duty of loyalty to us or our stockholders, for acts or omissions not in good faith or involving intentional misconduct or knowing violations of law, for actions leading to improper personal benefit to the director and for payment of dividends or approval of stock repurchases or redemptions that are unlawful under Delaware law. The provision also does not affect a director's responsibilities under any other law, such as the federal securities laws or state or federal environmental laws.

Our bylaws provide that we may indemnify our directors and officers to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law. Litigation expenses may be advanced upon our receipt of an undertaking by a director or officer to repay such advances if it is ultimately determined that such director or officer is not entitled to indemnification. The indemnification provisions contained in our bylaws are not exclusive of any other rights to which a person may be entitled by law, agreement, vote of stockholders or disinterested directors or otherwise.

We also have insurance on our directors and officers, which covers liabilities under the federal securities laws.

Item 16. Exhibits.

The exhibits listed in the accompanying Exhibit Index are filed or incorporated by reference as part of this Registration Statement.

Item 17. Undertakings.

(a) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes:

- (1) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this Registration Statement:
 - (i) To include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933;
 - (ii) To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the Registration Statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the Registration Statement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any increase or decrease in volume of securities offered (if the total dollar value of securities offered would not exceed that which was registered) and any deviation from the low or high end of the estimated maximum offering range may be reflected in the form of prospectus filed with the Commission pursuant to Rule 424(b) if, in the aggregate, the changes in volume and price represent no more than a 20% change in the maximum aggregate offering price set forth in the Calculation of Registration Fee table in the effective Registration Statement;
 - (iii) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the Registration Statement or any material change to such information in the Registration Statement;

Provided, however, that paragraphs (a)(1)(i) and (a)(1)(ii) do not apply if the information required to be included in a post-effective amendment by those paragraphs is contained in reports filed with or furnished to the Commission by the Registrant pursuant to Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that are incorporated by reference in the Registration Statement, or is contained in a form of prospectus filed pursuant to Rule 424(b) that is part of the registration statement.

- (2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new Registration Statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
 - (3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.
- (b) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the Registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that is incorporated by reference in the Registration Statement shall be deemed to be a new Registration Statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
- (c) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the provisions set forth or described in Item 15 of this Registration Statement, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.

Pursuant to the requirements of the Securities Act, the Registrant has duly caused this Form S-3 to be signed on its behalf by the undersigned, thereunto duly authorized, in the City of Bloomfield Hills, and State of Michigan, on this 30 day of January, 2007.
