» American s New Leadership Team is Announced

In a letter to all American and US Airways people this morning, Doug Parker announced the senior leadership team that has been selected to lead the new American Airlines once the merger closes. As individuals, they each have outstanding industry expertise and experience, said Doug. Collectively, they form the best team in the industry. The team will be comprised of Scott Kirby as President; Elise Eberwein as EVP, People and Communications; Bev Goulet as Chief Integration Officer; Robert Isom as Chief Operating Officer; Steven Johnson as EVP, Corporate Affairs; Derek Kerr as Chief Financial Officer; Maya Leibman as Chief Information Officer; and Will Ris as SVP, Government Affairs. Their job, says Doug, is to support all of you to give you the tools and information you need to do your jobs and then let you do it as the exceptional and experienced group of aviation professionals you are.

Tom Horton also sent a letter to American's people, commending American's leadership team for its extraordinary dedication over many years, and in particular, over the past year and a half to turn our airline around. And though there is no doubt more changes and challenges ahead, Tom believes the people of both companies have every reason to be optimistic about the future of American and the opportunities it will create.

Finnair Aims to Double Asia Passenger Numbers by 2020

Newly appointed Finnair CEO Pekka Vauramo sees opportunities to grow the airline and expects passenger numbers to and from Asia to double by 2020. Vauramo said Asia remains part of Finnair's main business as it creates more than 50 percent of our passenger revenue. However, he acknowledged the oneworld member has to work hard to attract customers using our network. Vauramo, formerly from Hong Kong Cargotec, said Finnair's Helsinki Vantaa hub remains a strategic issue. We plan to open one to two new [long-haul] destinations every year in Asia, he said. The oneworld member outsourced one-third of its European flights to Flybe Nordic, a joint venture between UK regional Flybe and Finnair, but so far it is difficult to say if this operation will be extended to other Finnair mainline routes. He acknowledged the European network remains challenging.
