On April 7, 2005, Carl C. Icahn and his affiliates filed a Schedule 13D with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which schedule contained the following statements in its Item 4 disclosure:

"On April 5, 2005, Mr. Icahn spoke with Mr. Antioco, the Chief Executive Officer of Issuer, about the possibility of Issuer extending the period of time that a shareholder would have to notify Issuer that it intended to nominate directors at the Issuer's annual meeting in 2005, presently scheduled for May 11, 2005. The additional time would be used to explore methods of enhancing shareholder value that each of the Registrants and Issuer would find acceptable. Mr. Antioco said that he would get back to Mr. Icahn regarding the additional time.

In the conversation, Mr. Icahn suggested that the Board of Issuer consider at least a one-time extraordinary dividend to shareholders of Issuer rather than spending valuable capital of Issuer on non-core business activities and also consider placing nominees of Registrants on the Board of Directors to diversify the Board's representation with the directors nominated by the largest shareholder of Issuer. Mr. Icahn also expressed his opinion that management of Issuer mishandled the failed attempt to acquire Hollywood Entertainment Corp., which would have been extremely beneficial for Issuer.

On April 6, 2005, Mr. Antioco wrote to Mr. Icahn and indicated that Issuer was rejecting all of Mr. Icahn's suggestions and would not consider an extension of time to send Issuer a notification of Registrants' intent to nominate candidates for directorships.

As a result, the Registrants have determined to nominate a slate of candidates to the Board of Issuer and intend to appropriately notify Issuer of its proposed nominees.
