On July 30, 2007, ABN AMRO Holding NV issued the following press release:

Dear colleagues,

Today we're announcing our half-year results, and I have to say it's refreshing to have news to deliver on a topic other than the corporate activities surrounding ABN AMRO. Despite the uncertainty about our strategic future throughout the second quarter, our results show a strong operating performance. Our profit for the first half of 2007 (on an adjusted basis*) was EUR 2,390 mln, up 13.4% compared with the first half of 2006.

Impressive results

We have called 2007 the year of delivery and I'm very pleased to announce we're on track to delivering what we promised – that is, we're well on our way to beating our full year EPS target of EUR 2.30 (on an adjusted basis). To read about the results in more detail, please see today's press release.

Please note that the numbers as reported in the press release are impacted by various incidental items, such as the provision we have taken for the US Department of Justice settlement, the sale of the Private Clients business in Miami and expenses on transaction-related advisory fees. Thus the reported headline figures do not always reflect the underlying trends in the business. The important thing to take away is that on an adjusted basis, our operational results are very strong.

Our successful second-quarter performance can be attributed to the execution of the initiatives set out for 2007, centering on growth, efficiency and acceleration of action plans. Improvement has been driven by strong, local client relationships and our commitment to deliver – something I encouraged all of us to do at the beginning of this year. More specifically, though, I want to acknowledge a few Business Units (BUs) who have seen particularly good results this past quarter.

With a focus on growth in 2007, we've been busy seizing opportunities in the regions of Asia and Latin America, which are rewarding us with significant results. Efficiency has been the driving force behind the return to profitability of BU Europe. In fact, BU Europe has just achieved its third consecutive quarter of profitability, thanks to upgraded service to Financial Institutions (a key client group), further growth of our successful private investor products and continued growth in our eastern European activities. Additionally, I want to mention BU

Global Markets who have delivered an impressive turnaround in terms of both efficiency and profitability in the past two years. Their operating profit in the first half of 2007 is almost three times that for the full year 2005. Clearly, the measures we've taken to structurally improve the profitability of BU Global Markets are paying off as their efficiency ratio is now in line with both that of the Group as a whole and also our peers', and they have contributed 25.8% to the Group's operating result.

Latest news on our strategic future

I do want to take this opportunity to provide a quick update on the current bids, as we have also made an announcement on this topic in a separate press release today.

Over the last days, we have carefully compared the two offers on the table from Barclays and the RBS, Santander and Fortis consortium.

When comparing the offers, we have to take into account a number of factors, including financial and strategic benefits of each offer, and any risks associated with them. After careful review and consideration we, the Managing and Supervisory Boards, have decided that we are not in a position to recommend either offer.

With regard to the Barclays offer, the Boards continue to support the strategic benefits of the combination with Barclays, but are not currently in a position to recommend this offer from a financial point of view.

Although the current value of the consortium's offer is attractive, the Boards have identified a number of significant risks related to the proposed break-up of ABN AMRO and are currently not in a position to recommend this offer.

We will now further engage with both parties to ensure a level playing field and minimise any of the uncertainties currently associated with the offers. We have agreed with Barclays on further amendments to the merger protocol, which will remain in effect (in an amended version).

Developments related to compliance

In other news, I'm pleased to inform you that the Dutch Central Bank (DNB) has decided to lift its Directive regarding compliance deficiencies at ABN AMRO. Thanks to the hard work of our compliance colleagues in all BUs and to the commitment of all staff across the globe in embracing our compliance actions, we have not only strengthened the compliance environment within the bank but are building one of the strongest anti-money laundering and compliance organisations in the financial services industry.

Against the backdrop of uncertainty, with developments unfolding quickly and sometimes unexpectedly, everyone has remained focused and committed to delivering the very best for our clients. Our half-year results are evidence of this hard work, dedication and resilience – and are something to be proud of.

Kind regards,
Rijkman Groenink
Chairman of the Managing Board

* 'Adjusted basis' means that the figures are adjusted for major cost and revenue items that are incidental in order to make numbers more comparable with previous years.
