As we look to the future, I believe more than ever that together with Bristol-Myers Squibb we will have improved capability and power to further advance our mission for patients. Today we reached an important milestone in the acquisition process between Bristol-Myers Squibb and Celgene – BMS' filing with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). This regulatory filing, called a Form S-4, contains additional information related to the acquisition including the chronology of the discussions between both companies, rationale for the deal, and other details related to the acquisition.

The filing also includes a tentative date of April 12, 2019 for the Celgene and Bristol-Myers Squibb shareholder meetings, which is the next important milestone in this process.
Since the filing is public, it is possible that there might be renewed media or other external stakeholder focus on the transaction. It is important for you to understand that we remain confident in the strategic rationale of this transaction and the potential value creation it presents to all stakeholders, including patients.
I want to thank the Celgene Transition Team , led by Joe Hand , for their frequent communications to help provide information and context to you as we advance through the process.
