Colleagues,

As our integration planning efforts continue, I hope you share my growing excitement about the future of our combined business. Your continued hard work and enthusiasm will be the foundation of a great new company.

We have made real progress in planning the successful combination of our two companies, but there is still much we need to accomplish to meet our integration planning goals. As we all know, our industry's slower for longer environment continues and we need to be proactive to best position our businesses for future success.

As we plan to bring our two companies together, we need to create a platform to drive growth and maximize profit to best position us for future success. We need to take full advantage of our combined capabilities to be successful in this highly competitive market. This means we need to take a hard look at everything we do to make sure we are innovative, efficient and competitive.

To that end, we are developing the Combination Profitability Initiative (CPI) as part of the overall Integration Management Office. This planning initiative focuses on identifying inefficiencies, eliminating them post-closing and optimizing the combined business. We are leveraging our combined expertise to identify cost drivers and develop execution plans to transform the combined business.

During the CPI program, teams from McDermott and CB&I will continue to identify cost efficiency opportunities, plan the associated activities to capture savings and track results after the closing. This effort will provide the strong financial foundation we need to take full advantage of our combined capabilities and drive future growth.

As the Executive Sponsor of this workstream, I cannot overemphasize the importance of your support for the success of this initiative and the larger integration effort. I believe that together we will be able to profitably grow the combined business while continuing to deliver for our customers around the world.

Thank you for your continued hard work and support.
