ITEM 8.01 OTHER EVENTS

On January 16, 2009, Con-way Inc. ("Con-way") filed an arbitration demand and

Edgar Filing: Con-way Inc. - Form 8-K

a federal lawsuit against New York State Teamsters Conference Pension and Retirement Fund ("Fund") to resolve uncertainties created by Fund's recent contacts with Con-way, threatening to hold Con-way liable for a portion of the multiemployer pension plan withdrawal liability incurred by Consolidated Freightways Corporation ("CFC"), a former subsidiary of Con-way which it spun off to its stockholders in 1996. CFC subsequently went bankrupt in 2002 and the multiemployer pension plans to which CFC was a party (including Fund) subsequently assessed approximately $400 million in claims against CFC for "withdrawal liabilities" that they determined to be CFC's share of unfunded vested benefits under those plans. The withdrawal liability claim that Fund was allowed against CFC in the bankruptcy was in the approximate amount of $19.78 million, which was based on a withdrawal from Fund in late 2002.

In the arbitration demand, Con-way asked the arbitrator to decide and resolve in Con-way's favor all arbitrable disputes between the parties. In the lawsuit, Con-way Inc. v. New York State Teamsters Conference Pension and Retirement Fund (United States District for the Northern District of New York 2009), Con-way asked the court to compel Fund to arbitrate all arbitrable disputes between the parties in the arbitration proceeding that Con-way filed, or, alternatively, to declare that Con-way is not liable for any of CFC's unpaid withdrawal liabilities and to enjoin Fund from violating applicable statutory and plan requirements.

Very recently, Con-way was advised informally by Fund's counsel that Fund's withdrawal liability claim as of February 2003, with interest to that date, exceeded $29 million. Fund has not advised if or how any previous recoveries by Fund in the CFC bankruptcy would be taken into account. It also appears that Fund is reserving the right to assert, presumably in lieu of and not in addition to the $29 million claim, that a "complete withdrawal" occurred on the date Con-way sold a former subsidiary to UPS in December 2004 and as a result that the amount of the withdrawal liability is measurable as of that date. Con-way has not been informed of, nor does it have adequate information available to estimate, the amount of the withdrawal liability claim as of December 2004.

Con-way continues to believe that its actions in connection with the CFC spin-off were proper and will continue to vigorously defend itself from any claims brought against it by Fund and any other multiemployer pension funds seeking to hold Con-way responsible for CFC's withdrawal liabilities. However, there can be no assurance as to the outcome of any such litigation, given uncertainties inherent in such proceedings, including the possible application of adverse judicial decisions rendered in unrelated matters not involving Con-way. Con-way continues to believe that the amount of any claims for unpaid withdrawal liabilities that multiemployer plans may in the future assert against Con-way could be material, and a judgment or arbitration award against Con-way for all or a significant part of these claims could have a material adverse effect on Con-way's financial condition, results of operations and cash flows. As a result of the matters discussed above, Con-way can provide no assurance that matters relating to the spin-off of CFC will not have a material adverse effect on Con-way's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.
