Last week brought the monumental news that our parent, Laidlaw International, had entered into an agreement with FirstGroup that would see FirstGroup acquire all of Laidlaw's operations, including Laidlaw Education Services. I truly believe the combination of our two school bus operations into a single company provides tremendous opportunities.

As you know, we have been engaged in many projects that seek to improve the use of technology and to standardize our processes to improve how we manage the business. Likewise, First Student has been focused on many of the same issues. Together we can combine our best practices and use what we learn across 60,000 buses rather than two smaller fleets. And I believe this will result in better operations and lower costs, to the advantage of our school board customers.

But we are still very early on in this process. The transaction has not closed and until it does we remain two separate and independent companies. It will take some months before the principal conditions—shareholder approvals and regulatory approvals—are in hand.

Until that time, please keep doing what you do every day—provide the safest school bus operation we can.

As we know more, we are committed to sharing that with you. So look for regular updates in the coming days and months on Yourtown and in our other communications. Don't forget to check out Yourtown for a list of Q&As. And, if you visit FirstGroup's webpage, you can hear remarks from their chief executive, Moir Lockhead, about the merger.

Thanks again for everything you do for Laidlaw every single day.

Doug Carty
