DUKE ENERGY CEO SAYS COMPANY HAS WORKED HARD TO REWARD
SHAREHOLDER LOYALTY AND REGAIN TRUST

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - Duke Energy Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer Paul Anderson today said the company is back on sound financial footing and has spent the past 12 months delivering value to shareholders.

"We made a lot of promises last year, and I hope you agree we've delivered," said Anderson before 300 shareholders at the company's annual meeting in Charlotte. "In a very real sense, we've regained control of our financial destiny."

In 2004, Duke Energy delivered a total shareholder return of 30 percent and reduced debt by selling non-core assets. Anderson reminded shareholders of the company's May 9 announcement that the board intends to increase the annual dividend 12.7 percent to $1.24 per common share when it meets in June. The increase will be effective with the September dividend payment.

The company announced the dividend increase at the same time as its merger announcement with Cincinnati-based Cinergy Corp, which is expected to close in mid-2006.

"You'll soon see the dividend increase, but just as important, the merger transaction will be accretive to Duke Energy earnings in the first full year of operation," Anderson said.

Another positive aspect would be the merged merchant operations of both companies. Duke Energy President and Chief Operating Officer Fred Fowler said that the proposed merger would strengthen Duke Energy's unregulated business unit Duke Energy North America (DENA), which has suffered through three years of disappointing results.

"We have talked about getting DENA back to being cash positive and profitable," said Fowler. "This combination of DENA's and Cinergy's unregulated assets will do just that."

Anderson added that a long-term benefit of the new company would be that the combined gas and electric operations would have scope and scale to be stand-alone companies. He said that would give the company the opportunity to explore the option of separating the gas and electric businesses.

During the meeting, Anderson said he would extend his tenure at Duke Energy at least one year beyond the close of the merger. Upon closing of the merger, Cinergy Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Jim Rogers would be president and CEO of Duke Energy. Anderson would continue to be the company's chairman.

During the meeting, shareholders approved a resolution to declassify the board of directors and move to an annual election of directors beginning with the 2006 annual meeting. Currently, Duke Energy has three classes of directors with staggered three-year terms.

Shareholders also elected four board members: Roger Agnelli, Alex Bernhardt, Dennis Hendrix and Max Lennon; and shareholders ratified the appointment of Deloitte & Touche LLP as the company's auditors for 2005.

Forward-Looking Statements

This document includes statements that do not directly or exclusively relate to historical facts. Such statements are "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These forward-looking statements include statements regarding benefits of the proposed mergers and Restructuring Transactions, integration plans and expected synergies, anticipated future financial operating performance and results, including estimates of growth. These statements are based on the current expectations of management of Duke and Cinergy. There are a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements included in this document. For example, (1) the companies may be unable to obtain shareholder approvals required for the transaction; (2) the companies may be unable to obtain regulatory approvals required for the transaction, or required regulatory approvals may delay the transaction or result in the imposition of conditions that could have a material adverse effect on the combined company or cause the companies to abandon the transaction; (3) conditions to the closing of the mergers and the restructuring transactions may not be satisfied; (4) problems may arise in successfully integrating the businesses of the companies, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected; (5) the combined company may be unable to achieve cost-cutting synergies or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies; (6) the transaction may involve unexpected costs or unexpected liabilities, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the companies' expectations; (7) the credit ratings of the combined company or its subsidiaries may be different from what the companies expect; (8) the businesses of the companies may suffer as a result of uncertainty surrounding the transaction; (9) the industry may be subject to future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect the companies; and (10) the companies may be adversely affected by other economic, business, and/or competitive factors. Additional factors that may affect the future results of Duke and Cinergy are set forth in their respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"), which are available at www.duke-energy.com/investors and www.cinergy.com/investors, respectively. Duke and Cinergy undertake no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
